

Feedback

“The option of feedback by digital audio or video can make feedback a more personal instructive experience for many learners” JISC, 2010, p.14

Choosing a feedback method and a technology to assist you largely depends upon what it is you want to communicate to the student and how individual the feedback is. There are a number of different formats which could be used to provide feedback electronically.

I need to be able to provide:

- Electronic marking and feedback \(Text\)
- Audio Feedback
- Video Feedback

Further advice on providing effective feedback can be found in the Learning Enhancements Assessment and feedback strategy and David Nicol’s Transforming Assessment and Feedback: Enhancing integration and empowerment in the first year.

References

JISC. (2010) Effective Assessment in a Digital Age: A guide to technology-enhanced assessment and feedback [online], Bristol, HEFCE. (accessed 26 March 2015).

< e-portfolios	Home	Electronic Marking >
----------------	----------------------	----------------------